ISO Moves Forward on AI Standards with Iran's Technical Proposal

Underlining Iran's expertise at the international level, IRIB quoted Mohammad-Hossein Sheikhi, an official with the Ministry of Information and Communication Technology, who stated, "It is not a typical administrative achievement." He further highlighted Iran being given an opportunity to be at the forefront of designing the rules governing emerging technologies.

Iran's participation in the development of a technical framework like LLMs reflect its active role country's global technological advancement, while also protecting its national interests.
