How LAIQON's ISO 27001 Certification Strengthens Data Security in Wealth Management

LAIQON AG and the LAIC subgroup are successfully ISO 27001 certified after a successful audit. Aimed at protecting sensitive data and business-critical processes, these independent audit documents have clearly defined processes, policies and control mechanisms. Information security is not only a key trust factor, but it also plays a vital role in processes that are significant to business, especially in sectors that are vulnerable and require high levels of regulations, for instance, the financial sector.

ISO 27001 covers the establishment, implementation, maintenance and continual improvement of an Information Security Management System. This is an internationally recognized standard for information security. Aligned with a risk-based approach, it protects both physical and digital information.

Amcor's Winterbourne site achieves ISO 13485 Certification

Amcor announced that its Winterbourne location, a centre for medical and healthcare packaging, has been certified under ISO 13485 for medical device packaging.

The ISO 13485:2016 standard sets international guidelines for quality management for medical devices. With the certification, healthcare clients are reassured that the Winterbourne site follows a risk assessment process designed to support regulatory compliance, which is aligned with regulatory compliance and patient safety.

This certification demonstrates its ability to manage risks effectively while meeting healthcare industry expectations. The standard requires strict control over processes, suppliers, and customer needs to maintain consistent quality.

Many companies in the medical sector expect their suppliers to have ISO 13485 certification, and holding this certification helps them meet their manufacturing needs.
